An Explanation of Our Financial Policy

The initial consultation establishes you as one of our patients and outlines your treatment plan. One initial consultation and plan is designed to give you enough information to make long lasting changes to your health. After their initial consultation, you may feel that you have enough information and support to carry out the treatment plan on your own. In this case, you may follow up with our office as often as you wish. For patients with more complex disease, more routine follow up or treatment protocol may be desired at the discretion of the patient or the advice of the physician.

Laboratory analysis are not included in my clinical fees. Many lab tests can be covered by insurance, others cannot. We have researched a comprehensive list of laboratories and only use services that provide the highest quality and most cost effective service. We do not make any money on outside laboratory testing but may charge for administrative time for preparing testing kits and orders. All laboratory tests are only recommended by the physician; it is the patient who makes the ultimate decision to carry out with laboratory testing.

Many of my treatments include botanical medicines and nutrients, injection therapy, IV protocols and quantum biology protocols. The cost of these treatments must be born by the patient and are not included in the initial fees.

We are not contracted with any government or private insurance companies. Therefore, we cannot bill your medical insurance for our services. However, in many cases we fill out a medical bill for you to submit to your own insurance agency. Many times patients can get reimbursed on their own for our services in this way, but you are responsible for handling your own reimbursement from your own insurance company. This service is never possible with any Medicaid or Medicare program.

We accept only cash and major credit cards: Am-Ex, Visa, Mastercard, and Discover. For credit card transactions of in-person services, a 3% processing fee applies. This fee is waived for all telemedicine and remote office services.

Sincerely,

Christopher Lawinski, MD and Staff
